

CAPT's Yahoo Group Forum is no longer in service

CAPT's Yahoo Group Forum has been closed due to Yahoo Groups no longer hosting user-created content on its sites. CAPT created the Yahoo -hosted forum in the late nineties as an added means to communicate news relevant to our industry and union. The group also provided a forum by which subscribers could ask questions and receive feedback from fellow Psych Techs, as well as from CAPT representatives and consultants.

The Psych Tech forum had nearly 700 active subscribers. If you were one of these subscribers, you will no longer receive union or industry updates, nor will you be able to get feedback from your inquiries via the Yahoo Group forum. CAPT is exploring alternative forums that are private and secure for the dissemination of union news, communication, and information. Until that time, we ask that all members keep in close contact with their local chapter and their chapter's Facebook account. You may also stay informed by regularly visiting the CAPT website at www.psychtechs.net, twittering us at twitter.com/psychtechs, and by friending Eric Soto, CAPT's state president, at www.facebook.com/statepres.soto.
